EDMONTON

A BRIEF REVIEW

In no part of Canada has any place made such rapid strides as the City of Edmonton, and even although for a brief space of time the financial depression was felt in the West equally with the East, and other parts of the Globe, the "Doorway of the Last West," quickly shook it off, and now stands a prosperous and progressive city. The geographical position and other favorable surroundings make Edmonton at once of the highest importance, but even that indisputable fact is not alone responsible for the progression made, and every credit must be given to those who during past and present years have taken every advantage of the situation. With an altitude of 2,158 feet above sea level, and about 150 feet above the river Saskatchewan, Edmonton, with an approximate area of 9,000 acres, and a present population estimated at 22,000 people, has from its earliest days proved an ideal spot, the atmosphere being clear, dry and bracing. The soil is rich and the adjoining country well timbered, in addition to which a strong seam of excellent lignite coal underlays the city and suburbs, while there is an abundant supply of water in most cases at no great depth from the surface. Under such conditions, and with the knowledge that in order to open up that vast country known as the Peace River District, settlers will have to stop for supplies, it is not surprising to find manufacturers of all kinds anxious to establish themselves in the city and suburbs, and already many millions of dollars have been staked in enterprises that will surely recoup the investor.

A glance at statistics from 1899, or five years after Edmonton became a municipality, shows ten years of progress such as any city may justly feel proud. In 1899 the net assessment reached $1,183,249.00, while in 1908 the figures were $22,543,- 720.00. Taxes levied then amounted to $21,588.84, and in 1908 the levy was $375,377.03..

One of the most historical spots left to Edmontonians is the old Hudson's Bay Fort overlooking the river ferry and Walterdale. This trading post has stood the test of something like a couple of centuries, and years ago was the point where traders and trappers were wont to barter their skins. The Fort figures in many writings of both fact and fiction, and as a landmark of special interest should be visited by all who journey to the city. The fur trade with Indians and other trappers has naturally been driven further north, but Edmonton still claims a great share, and last year one firm alone shipped skins to the value of $60,000, these finding a ready market in London, England. It is difficult to obtain the actual value of furs sent from Edmonton, but they must run into many hundreds of thousands of dollars.

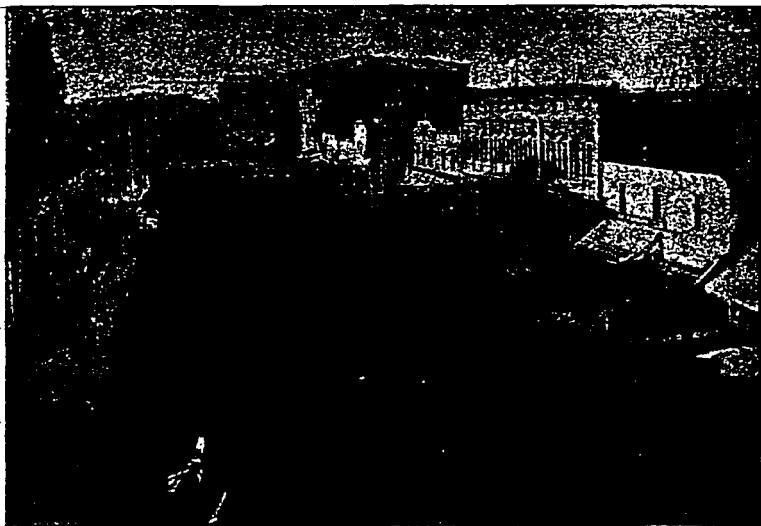

Without intending to review all the large buildings finished or in course of progress during last year it becomes necessary to mention at least a few, and of course Parliament Buildings must take pride of position. This huge pile, however, has hardly advanced above its foundation stage, and it will be two years at least before the gorgeous building is in commission. The new Court House, too, now under construction, will be a building worthy of the city, while the spacious Post Office, recently completed by the May-Sharpe Co., will compare favorably with any other in Canada.

Enterprise in building business blocks is very marked, and in addition to the Packing Plant, recently completed at a cost of a million dollars, such structures as the Wize Block, the Secord Block, the Blowey-Henry Block, new store premises on Jasper in the East End, and the building of two properly constructed theatres, in the course of a few weeks, are evidences of faith in the prospects of the city. A large Market Hall and a new City Hospital is also to be built shortly, and an addition to the Castle Hotel will cost $100,000 and be completed within the year.

With the early completion of the Norwood School, Edmonton will be in possession of the finest educational institution in the West. Costing close upon $100,000, and being built and furnished with every modern requirement, the new school will provided the children of this fast-growing suburb with a veritable palace of learning. When a short time ago the American journalists visited the city, they were all struck with the large number and quality of Edmonton schools, and rightly so, but had they seen the latest addition their amazement would surely have been more intense. There are ten Public Schools in the city, including two for Roman Catholic children, and neither trouble nor expense has been spared to impart a thorough education to the sons and daughters of residents.

Alberta College, situated on First Street, and presided over by Rev. J. H. Riddell, B.A., D.D., and C. E. Race, B.A., accommodates 500 students, including a large proportion of ladies, and is one of the most important seats of education in the Province.

In addition to other establishments in and near the city, Westward Ho! College in the western suburbs must be given special notice, and a visit, if only to scan the picturesque surroundings of this high-class Boarding School will repay the visitor. The spacious and entirely modern building commands a magnificent panoramic view of the Saskatchewan Valley, while the school grounds are extremely pretty. Instruction in the Classics, Modern Languages, Science, Mathematics and the principles of business is given, while boys are also prepared for the universities and R. M. C. The staff consists of gentlemen of great experience in teaching and conducting boarding schools, and Mr. W. H. Nightingale, the headmaster, is ably qualified to look after the interests of his pupils from the smallest boy upwards. It is interesting to note here that every inducement is offered pupils to enter into sports and pastimes of a healthy character.

Edmonton is decidedly fortunate in the possession of one of the most efficient Fire Departments in Canada, and it speaks well for Chief Davidson and his officers that very few fires have occurred since the formation of the brigade, which have been allowed to do more than a small percentage of damage. The system of box alarms, of which there are fifty throughout the city, has proved of the greatest value, 57 calls out of 90 during a year being made by this means. The Brigade has instituted another very important improvement in the fire fighting department, in the form of "Scuttle Holes," which enables revolving or basement nozzles to be at once applied without having to cut away the double floors of large stores, etc. These also act as indicators, and being fitted by the Department at the bare cost of the casting, should be welcomed by all business firms. The City Ambulance, presented by the Westward Ho! Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire, is maintained and operated by members of the Fire Department, and has proved of great value, being called into requisition almost daily.

In several other departments the City of Edmonton will compare favorably with towns of much larger population, both on this and the other side of the Atlantic. Their newly-installed Strowger system of telephones, for instance, is the most perfect yet known, and being automatic in its action, one does not hear the constant "engaged," inflicted by the much maligned telephone girl of old. The incinerator, too, is an acquisition of the greatest value, and doubtless much possibility of disease will be obviated by its judicious use. The electric light and power plant has been considerably augmented, and the addition of a producer gas plant of the latest known type will prove beneficial in the production of extra power when required. The fact that in the space of eleven months the City Electric Department showed a surplus of $3,419.39 proves conclusively that it is a paying proposition.

The newly constructed Radial Railway consists at present of twelve miles of track, the equipment being six four-motor passenger cars, 38 feet long, and one two-motor passenger car, 31 feet in length, while the power producing plant consists of one 300 k.w. 550 volt Westinghouse generator. Superintendent Chas. E. Taylor, writing on the subject, remarks: "The indications are that the present passenger equipment will have to be doubled in the next few months, while express, baggage and freight cars are likely to be added shortly."

Fourteen well-established banks and branches have quarters in the main streets, and the bankers' clearing-house negotiate an average of over $1,000,000 weekly.

Hotel accommodation will be found second to none in Canada, the Alberta being the finest in the Province, while the latest addition for the convenience of visitors and commercial men, is the Yale, a new and up-to-date hotel carried out on the European plan.

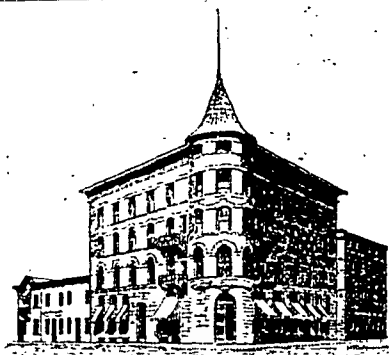

The city is well provided with amusements, having already five theatres and several concert halls (of the latter the Separate School being the best). In winter skating rinks are to be found in various parts, and lovers of hockey and curling will find every inducement held out to them to watch or indulge in their favorite pastime, while in summer cricket, lawn tennis, golf and other sports are played. The S.S. Strathcona makes pleasure trips on the river. Music of a high-class character may be heard in various places, and last year the Alberta Musical Festival held in Edmonton proved an unqualified success. The Annual Industrial Exhibition and Summer Fair, which by the way will be held this year June 29th to July 2nd, and the Grain Festival held in the Fall are amongst other important attractions held out to visitors during the year.

The possibilities of Edmonton are unbounded, and manufactures of nearly every commodity will find a ready market for their goods. In this direction, however, we would strongly recommend manufacturers and business men who intend settling, to first consult Mr. A. G. Harrison, the courteous Secretary of the Board of Trade, who will, we feel sure, forward enquirers all information free of charge.

Governesses, domestic servants and women helpers will find no difficulty in obtaining profitable and congenial employment in town or country, while genuine farm hands will always find employment.

Pure, Mature, Non-carbonated
Export and Lager Beer
Strathcona, Alberta

Among the many business enterprises of "The Twin Cities of Alberta," none is of higher importance than that of Brewing and Malting. In this direction Strathcona unquestionably possesses the most modern Brewery in the North-West of Canada. Completely remodelled a year ago, the large building, situated on the river slopes of Strathcona and overlooking Walterdale and the ferry, contains the latest and most scientific machinery requisite for the production of pure beer. It is the only Brewery in this part of the great last west worked entirely by electricity. Being brewed from the purest Canadian Malt and finest Hops obtainable, and allowed to properly mature, the beer possesses a clean and healthy palate unobtainable in a carbonated beverage. :: :: :: :: :: :: :: ::

PLACES OF INTEREST AROUND EDMONTON.

City of Strathcona—Population 5,000. Although it was only in the month of July, 1891, that the Canadian Pacific Railway completed a line of service to Strathcona, yet from that period the city has made vast strides, and to-day as a twin sister to Edmonton holds the reputation of being the most successful east of Vancouver and west of Winnipeg. Its natural position and resources have brought about this end, and with the completion of the University Buildings, at a cost of over $1,000,000, the success of the city as a residential and educational centre will be assured. In addition to the University there is a High School, two first-class private and two separate schools, while eight churches are within the city boundary. The Canadian Pacific Railway has already shops in working order and in a year or two it is hoped the city will be linked with Edmonton by a high level bridge.

Strathcona boasts of several high-class hotels, including the Strathcona, the Iroquois, St. Louis and the Windsor, and amongst other industries, two sawmills, three brickyards, three packing houses, two sash and door factories, one flour mill, an

St Albert—Population 560. A delightful little town on the river Sturgeon, nine miles from Edmonton, situated in a picturesque valley. The lake, about a mile from the town, is a favorite resort, boating, shooting and fishing being easily obtainable. A visit to the new Roman Catholic Cathedral and the Seminary, the home of Bishop Legal, will well repay the tourist. Hotel accommodation is quite first-class, the St. Albert Hotel being the largest and best equipped northwest of Edmonton.

Clover Bar Bridge—An important link between east and west, six and a half miles from Edmonton over the river Saskatchewan. The bridge erected by the May-Sharpe Construction Company for the Grand Trunk Pacific, is built on concrete structures, said to be the largest of the kind in the world.

Fort Saskatchewan—Population 850. Seventeen miles from Edmonton. The Fort is the headquarters of the "G" division of the R. N. W. M. P., and is well worth a visit. Amongst other attractions the town annually draws thousands to its sports on Victoria Day.

Morinville—A town of much importance twenty-four miles from Edmonton on the C. N. R. railway. Possessed of coal mines, natural gas, minerals and a Board of Trade, it is a place that should prosper.

Stony Plain—A town twenty-one miles west, surrounded by a well-settled and flourishing agricultural country.

Leduc—With a population of close upon 500, is one of the most important towns north of Calgary, shipping more grain than any other station on the C. P. R. route. It has three elevators and a picturesque lake to recommend it, while the various stores are up-to-date in every way. Leduc also possesses a very smart fire department and Board of Trade.

Hudson's Bay Fort—The most historic spot near Edmonton, overlooking the river and ferry to Walterdale and Strathcona.

Walterdale is the new name for the locality, for years known as Walter's Flats. In addition to a huge lumber mill owned by Mr. John Walters, there are brickyards, a coal mine and a tannery, while within the last year a fully equipped store has been added by Messrs. D. Brown and Co. This firm has also opened a convenient luncheon counter and ice creamery. Walterdale possesses a Church of Christ, the creed pleading for a complete return to primitive Christianity. During the summer months the busy little suburb will repay the visitor.

Packing Plant—A special visit should be made to J. Y. Griffin's pork packing factory, built at a cost of $1,000,000. Visitors will be shown over the factory free.

Manufacturers of All Kinds of Bricks

In addition to the fact that St. Albert is a pleasant suburb of Edmonton, it also holds a very important commercial standing to which the St. Albert Co., contributes in no small degree. The manufacture of sound brick has for the past few years been of the highest value to the new towns springing up in all directions, and being favored with the best clay possible for production, the St. Albert Co. are enabled to turn out 35,000 bricks per day. If proof were required of the quality of these, it is only necessary to say that amongst other places in which they have been used are the new Post Office, Edmonton, the Griffin Packing Plant and the Incinerator, Edmonton. The works, presided over by F. L. O' Coffey, are thoroughly modern and up-to-date and the Company are in a position to receive orders for large or small quantities.
